

THE MOST BEAUTIFUL ROOMS IN THE WORLD

ARCHITECTURAL DIGEST

US - Germany - India - France - Russia - Spain - China - Mexico - Italy - Middle East

Rizzoli

Berlin

Next door to a marine police station, architect Tanja Linke built her family a bungalow on stilts—it sits high above the river, supported by slender pillars and a concrete core. Inside, a zebra-wood shelf unit serves as a display case and a room divider. The object display and seating were arranged by Linke's husband, the artist Anselm Reyle, while the chandelier once hung in the East German parliament building.

ADN 183, October 2017